Working in the health and social care sectors

The health and social care sectors currently employ approximately 1 in 10 of the working population in the UK. These sectors cover a range of services across many organisations within the public, private and voluntary sectors, including hospitals, hospices, nursing, care homes and many other types of provision.

The programme's structure

Your Senior healthcare support worker will work as part of a team providing high quality and compassionate care to individuals over a minimum of 18 to 24 months. While on-programme, the apprentice will be supported by their tutor who will review their progress against the standard to ensure they are ready for end-point assessment. The final judgment on the competency of the apprentice, the grade to be awarded for each component and the overall grade rests with the independent assessor.
